

Wellbeing: Living with Diabetes

Course overview

Diabetes is a lifelong condition of both adults and children, which affects people physically as well as emotionally. Living with it can be difficult as there are many factors to consider. This means that not everyone manages their diabetes well. This workshop will increase your understanding of diabetes, its management and what those around some-one with diabetes can do to support them to manage it well.

This is an essential workshop for anyone who has or is living with someone with who has recently been told they are diabetic or pre-diabetic, for those who may work with adults or young people with diabetes or live or work with people who struggle to manage their diabetes effectively.

What will I study?

You will:

- Cover what diabetes is
- Recognize the signs of poorly managed diabetes
- Discuss how food and exercise can support diabetes management
- Discuss how those around can support effective diabetes management

Assessment method

You will participate in discussions, Q&A and receive verbal feedback from the tutor throughout the workshop.
